Genealogy of the Bl-John Williams Family with some Peterson information, and Weese intermarriage, Particularly Frances Augusta Peterson who lived with the Delmage Family.

The Peterson's and Weeses were Holland Dutch and German.

The Williams' were Holland Dutch and Welch.

Bl-John Williams ^{father} came to New York, fought in the Revolutionary War, and came to Canada as a United Empire Loyalist, and settled near Picton. The Petersons, uncles of Frances lived at Peterson's Point and ran the Ferry above Deseronto, Peterson's Ferry. Later run by 'Cronks'. Frances used to visit at her cousin's Nathaniel S. Petersons. This Founder Al-Williams, (first name unknown) had a son Bl-John Williams who married Blw- Nancy Weese, who was not a sister to llw Anna Weese who married ll James Williams parents of ll2 Easter Williams Delmage. ll4 Peter Williams and David (ll5) Williams brothers of ll2 Easter Williams married first cousins, so they were first cousins of Easter also. Also a Weese relationship. Whether this Bl-John Williams was Albert's (1) son I have no record. ll5 David Williams was also Frances Peterson's uncle, he may have been a great uncle. l Albert Williams had a son John Williams who was possibly Frances Grandfather. Lorraine Thompson does not know and wondered if Alice Delmage knew.

Here is the record, Founder first name unknown.

Dear Sir;-

Your kind letter received this morning, so will reply by return mail, and I admit I may of erred about the Weese family of Prince Edward county, as it may be Lennox & Addington county. My grandmothers name was Janet Weese before her marriage to my grandfather William Lane, in 1861 I believe was year of their marriage. My grandmother came from Kingston and I believe her father was Ira Weese who married Mary Hubert and they had quite a large family. One of the sons was William and they had three other sons, the daughters were Matilda, who married John Lane, Janet who married Wm Lane, and Maria who married Jonas Grant, there were others but as my mother died in 1952 and it has only been these last four years that my sister is seeking information on the Weese and Lane families for a book she is writing, it has been difficult to get to much information, especially on the Weese family.

John Weese and Ira were probably brothers , but I believe Ira was my grandmothers father, and he was a United Empire Loyalist, as he joined the British regiment against the Americans in 1812. The Weeses originally came from Holland and settled in New York, but didn't stay long and made their way to Canada. My grandparents the William Lanes lived at Denbigh Ontario, and at the time they settled there on a homestead, there was quite a dispute arose as to the naming of Denbigh, as my grandfather was the 2nd settler to arrive and at that time the little settlement was called Cedar Lake, but the citizens who came later wanted to change the name, and many wanted it named Lane after my grandfather, who was very active in the community. He farmed and was a member of the Masonic Lodge, and had a membership in the Orange Lodge, and was also Justice of the Peace, and a helper in all Community projects. However the 1st settler had come from Denbigh Wales, so they decided to give it the name where the first settler immigrated from.

Genealogy of the Wees or Weis families in Canada near Camden Township, Ontario
Compiled by Alice Delmage-Pawcett, May 1867

Eight Wees brothers came from Germany to New York, in 1804.
About 1900 the E was added to the name and it became Weese.

The name of the father and founder in Germany is unknown, but it is known that this Mr. Wees

Married

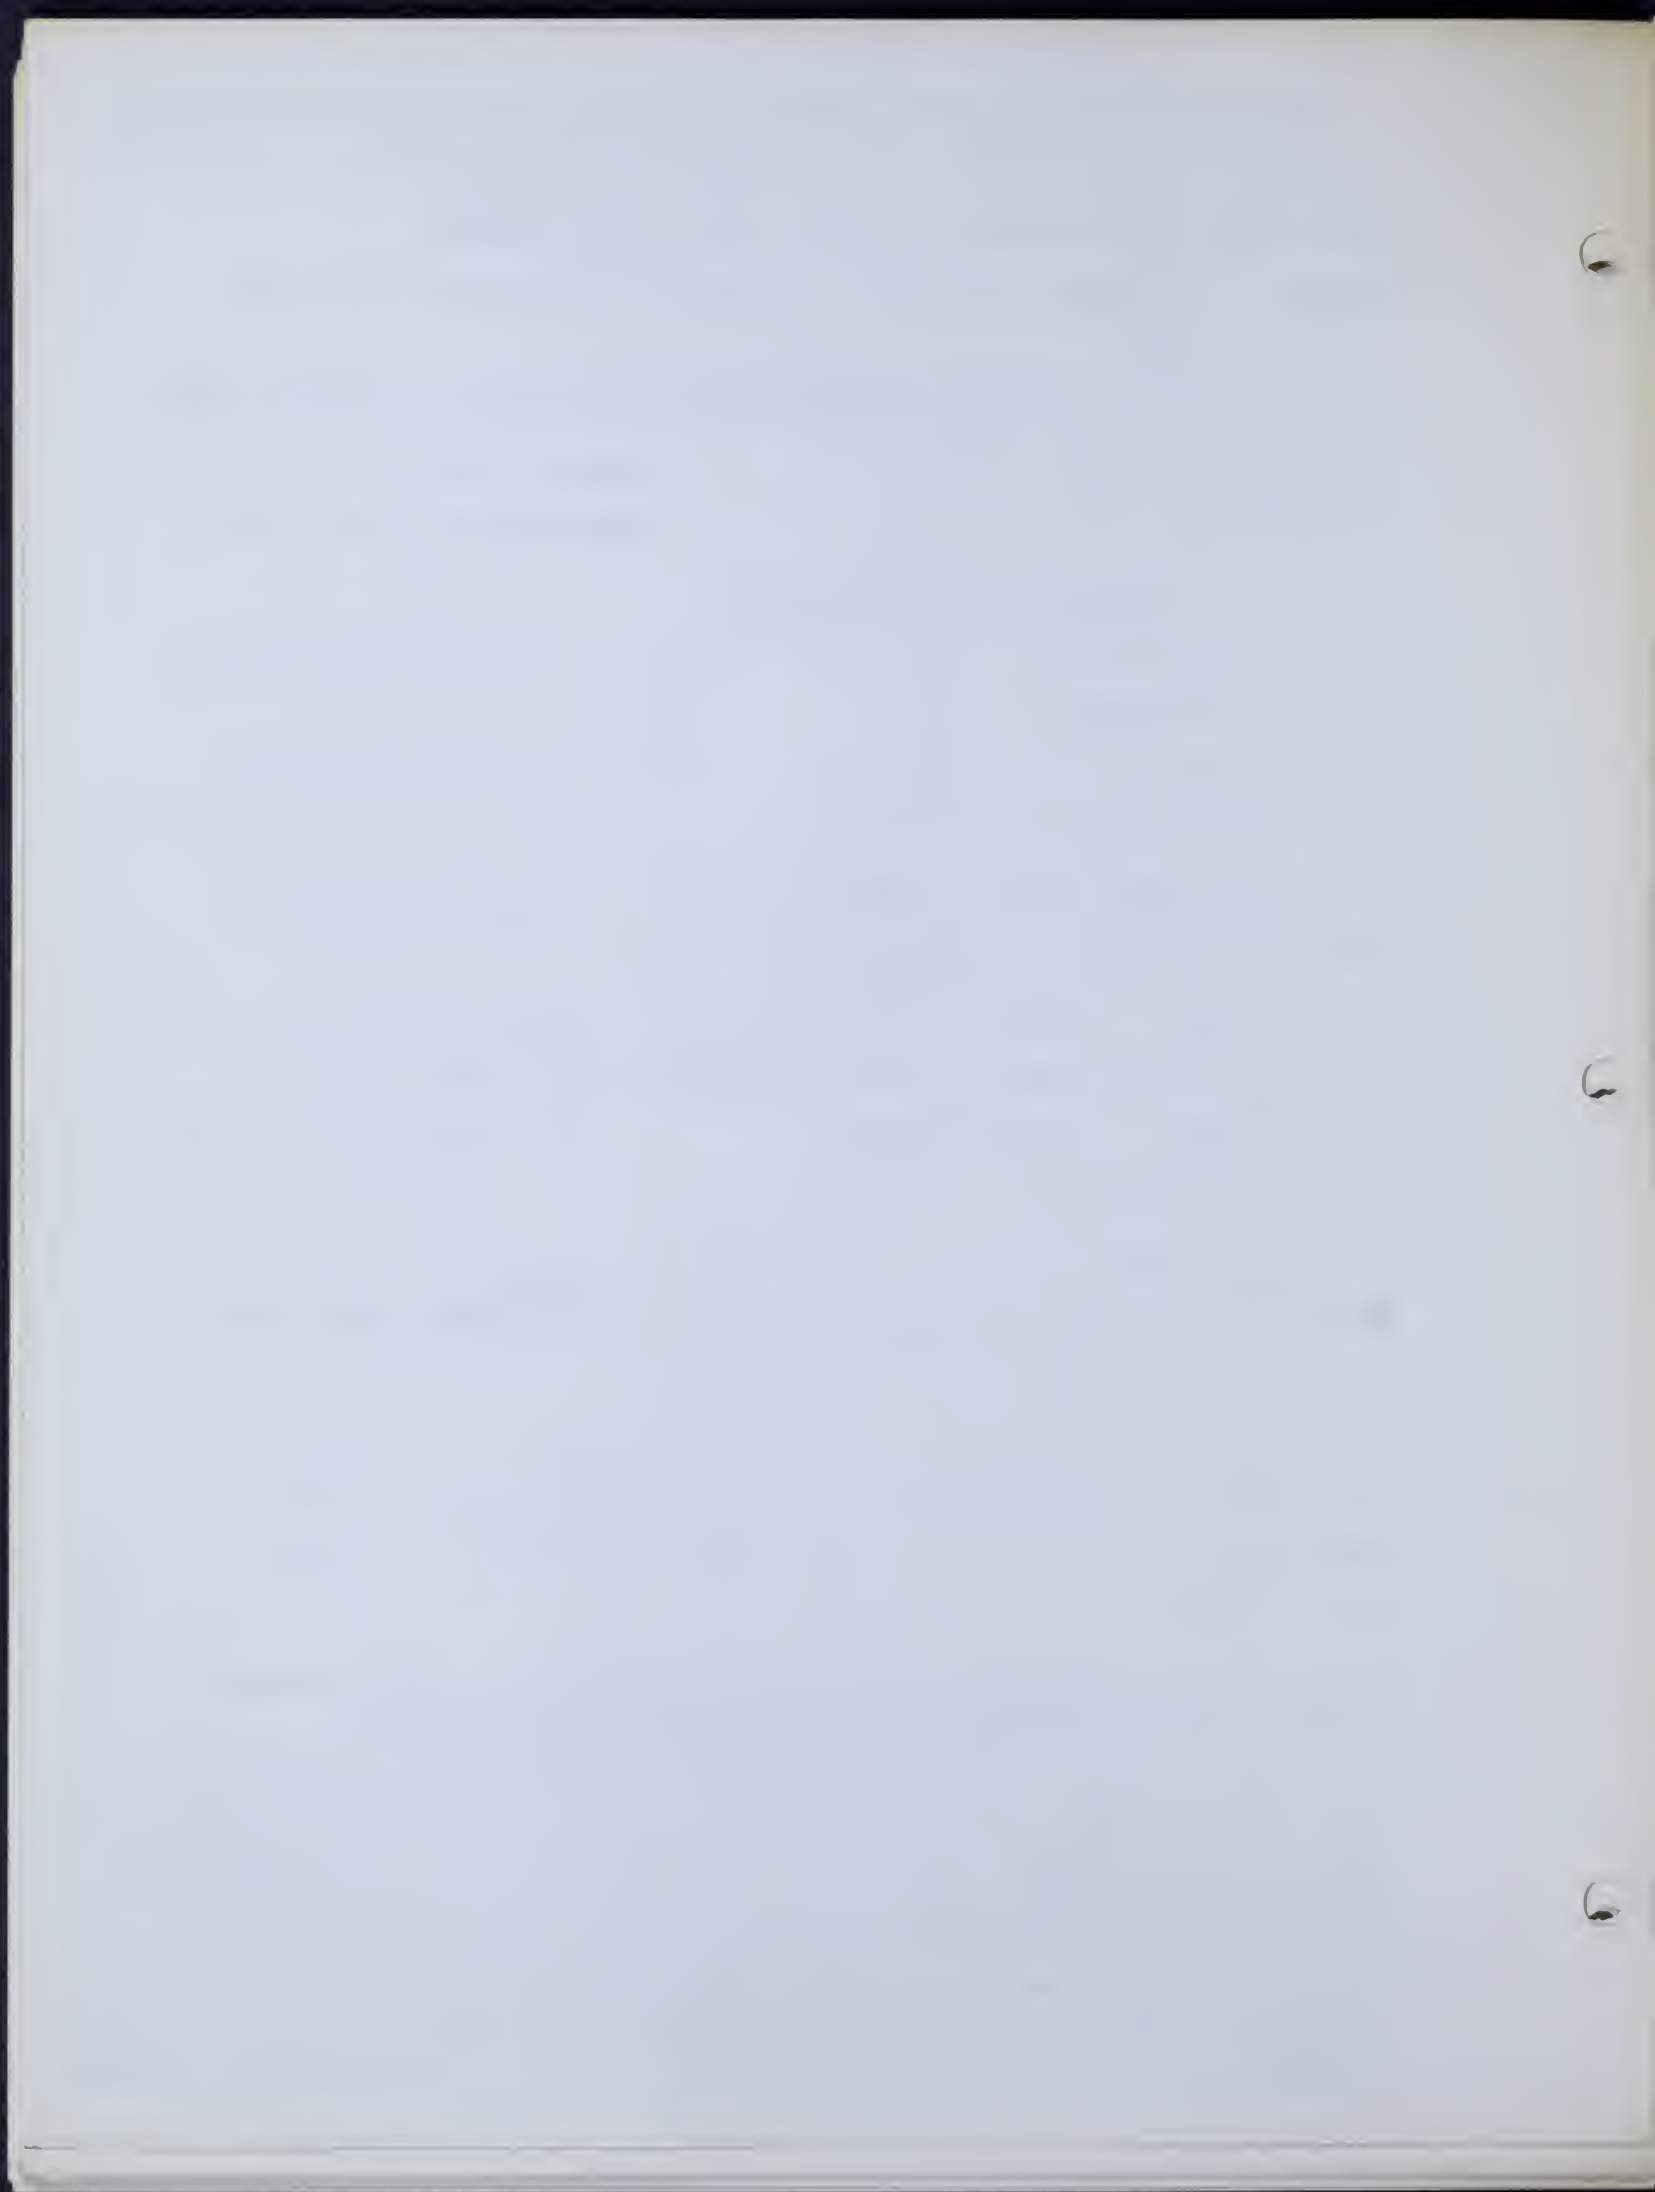

Miss Carr. This son 1 David Wees our ancestor came to Camden East. Ont.
The Wees family were Holland Dutch and so were the Williams, Germans or Welsh.

I do not have a record of the girls. Annie and Peter must have been born in Germany. Annie's genealogy follows down through WILLIAMS record.
PETER AND POLLY built a grey stone house on a corner by the river on Main St. in Newburgh, Ontario. I don't think they had children? The walls of this house was still standing in 1967, though used for a work shop. Peter's wife and Ezra's wife were half sisters. I am not sure of the spelling of this name, Couley or Cooley. 15 Ezra had two sons, 151 Milton Wees, and 152 David Wees. William and Linetta Delmage visited them in Sarnia. While away six weeks on trip Mrs. Ella C. Hawley took care of the family of children, together with her two own girls. Ezra Wees ran big fisheries in the St. Clair River. His sons built a big hotel in Sarnia and later ran their father's fisheries. Milton's daughter married Will Frazell who worked in the Napanee Post office, present building. Her brother visited her and the three came to the farm in Camden to visit. The next day the brother returned home, and she saw him off. Went home and went to bed. She had not told her Brother how miserable she was. In about a week she died of Bright's disease.

Her parents had furnished her home completely, and everything was new. William Delange bought the Magdela sitting room carpet at the sale. She was not married quite a year.

Ira Wees' horses ran away. The Neck Yoke broke, and flew and hit Ira in the head and killed him.

I cannot tell about the girls. There was a May Thompson went to Milsap public school when I was a child that was in some way connected, as two or three of the girls married Thompson.

Lineage.—The family of De la Cherois descends from the younger branch of an ancient and noble house in France, formerly resident at Cheroy or Cherois, a small town near Sens, in the province of Champagne, whence the family name is derived.

The Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, in the year 1685, compelled the De la Cherois, being Protestants, to leave their native country. In the year 1641,

CAPT. SAMUEL DE LA CHEROIS (ancestor of the family settled in Ireland) served in the war undertaken by Cardinal Richelieu against the House of Austria. He left three sons,

1. Daniel.
2. NICHOLAS.
3. Bourjonval.

Daniel remained at home. Nicholas embraced the military profession, and was made a Capt. of Fusiliers by Louis XIV., 1677. In the year 1683, these brothers fled to Holland, where they were received with great kindness by the Statholder, into whose service they entered, obtaining commissions in the Dutch Army of the same rank as those they had held in that of France. In 1689, WILLIAM, Prince of Orange, being called to the throne of Great Britain, formed several regiments of French Huguenots, in one of which Nicholas de la Cherois was appointed Major, Daniel Captain, and Bourjonval Lieutenant, who was killed at Dungannon, in an engagement with the enemy. They accompanied King WILLIAM to Ireland 1690, and finally settled there. The second son,

MAJOR NICHOLAS DE LA CHEROIS, distinguished himself at the battle of the Boyne, and afterwards performed a very gallant action, making fifteen hundred men lay down their arms with only a subaltern's guard, for which he was presented by the Government with fifteen hundred crowns and a Lieutenant-Colonelcy. He m. Marie, dau. of Louis Crommelin, and left a dau., Madeleine, wife of Daniel Crommelin, of Lisburn, and a son,

Mr. Richard P. Eckels,

Palmetto, Fla., 33561, U. S. A.

Dear Mr. Eckels:

Your letter, dealing with the genealogy prepared by Miss Elsie Dulmage of Winnipeg, arrived today. I am answering now, as I find that unanswered letters get lost in the mess of papers on my desks.

Miss Elsie also favored me with a copy of her booklet. I have scanned it briefly, and I noted the many errors in spelling and variations in detail. I intended thanking her soon, noting some errors, but have failed to do so. Nor has she asked me to return it, as yet. Of course, it should be re-written.

I have often come near the point of writing to you about your family, but, as so often happens, neglected to do so. So, here goes.

I have been intrigued by the knowledge, or supposition, that there were several distinct branches of your family in Canada. I refer to

1. The family in Western Ontario, was it in Preston?

2. The family in Smith's Falls, Ont.

At the moment, I have mislaid my Dulmage file, but, as I recall, you had not indicated where these families branched from the main stem. Do you know now?

This brings me to a third branch which I came on about two years ago. This branch, spelling the name Delmage, lasted for three generations, and is now represented by females only, resided in Camden Township, just north of Bath, a matter of ten miles, since 1839. This family branches off from Adam, son of the original Johan Dolmetsch. This is the family whose pedigree is found in Burke's Landed Gentry. They are termed DELMEGE or DOLMAGE of Rathkeale, Ireland. Perhaps I am wrong, and Adam was a grandson, and son of Julius. The family here (in Camden) claim this descent.

H. C. Burleigh, M.D., C.M.
Bath, Ontario

Dear Doctor Burleigh:

I am delighted to learn of your most absorbing hobby and will be glad to share with you anything I have in the area of your interest. It is, however, highly probable that we are acquainted with pretty much the same source materials and the same collectors.

My profession happens to be in investment securities but long ago I was a college teacher and have, as a relic from that period, the Ph.D. of the University of Pennsylvania. Genealogy has been a hobby of mine for about 30 years, but it was less than a year ago that I began to make contacts with Dulmage (or, more generally, Canadian) material.

J. A. B. Dulmage, Q.C., Smiths Falls, Ontario comes from a later emigrant than my ancestor, and is my prime authority for the family's Swabian period. He located one Otto Heintzeler in Germany who is the author of Stammfolge der Familie D O L M E T S C H and has the work translated into English (not published) for his own use.

According to Heintzeler, the surname is of Magyar (Hungarian) origin and means "translator." In the Teutonic countries, the name is known from the 12th century onward, and there are cognates in Russian ("Tolmatsch") and in Polish ("Thumacz"). Arms were granted in 1580 and again in 1620 to, I believe, families living in Pforzheim (Baden) and Dachau (Bavaria); these may or may not have been related to the Dulmages of Canada and, earlier, Ireland.

The first ancestor we identify was JOHANN ADAM DOLMETSCH, born c1679 and probably in the Palatinate; married c1697, probably in the Palatinate, Elizabeth Lorentz (the later Lawrence); they emigrated to England in 1709 and shortly thereafter to Ireland where they lived in the Parish of Rathkeale, County Limerick.

The earliest document, from Public Records Office, London, relates the arrival at St. Catherine's of a large party of Palatine emigrants fleeing religious persecution; this is available, in 38 printed pages: New York Genealogical Record, vols. 40 and 41 (1909, 1910), and the D. entry is vol. 40, p. 162. I imagine you would find listed in this source several dozen of the families represented among your collection of early pioneers in Canada: Imberger (Embury), Hecht (Heck), Lorentz (Lawrence), etc.

For the background of the religious squabbles and displaced persons, see F. R. Diffenderffer, "The German Exodus to England in 1709," Proceedings and Addresses, Pennsylvania German Society 7 (1896) 257-413.

According to the document cited, JOHAN DOLMETSCH was 30, a Lutheran and a winedresser, accompanied by his wife and three sons (12, 9, 6 years) and two daughters (2, $\frac{1}{2}$ year).

The death of Johann Adam Dolmetsch is recorded as 27 December 1751 at Castle Mattress, County Limerick, Ireland. The German-born children were Gerhardt (Gerrard) (Garrett), cl697-1769, who m. Ellenore ~~cl697~~ 6 (d. 1763) and from whom all living Dulmages, Dolmages, Delmages, etc. appear to derive.

(2) John cl700- is said to have left children but no grandchildren.

(3) Adam cl703- is said to have died unmarried; he was vestryman of Rathkeale Church cl745.

(4) daughter cl707-

(5) daughter cl709-

Born in Ireland were

(6) Julius cl710- left children but no grandchildren

(7) Jacob cl712- " " " "

Contemporary members of the family in Ireland know of a brother of Johann Adam Dolmetsch who, at about the same time (1709), went to Jamaica and founded a family which persisted there until 1830.

Gerhardt Dulmage (cl697-1769) had three sons of genealogical importance:

1. Adam John Dulmage, m. Elizabeth Powell, fathered 5 sons and 3 daughters, dying about 1801.

One son, Capt. James Delmage, emigrated to Chatham, Canada cl839.

In the absence of contrary evidence, assume this ancestor for all Delmages and Dolmages.

2. Philip Dulmage, b 1734

m Anne Ruckle (Ruttle) of Rathkeale, sister of Mrs. Barbara (Ruckle) Heck. Their grandson, Garrett Dulmage 1788-, married Sarah Faraght, and emigrated to Lanark County, Ontario, cl824 (ancestors of J.A.B. Dulmage, Q.C.)

3. Jacob Dulmage, progenitor of the United Empire Loyalist Dulmages. Born in Ireland cl720. Married 1st, cl741, Margaret Embury (cl720-cl746), daughter of Andreas Imberger (Andrew Embury) and sister of Philip Embury (well-known pioneer of Methodism) and his three emigrant-brothers. In 1749 (Rathkeale) Jacob married 2nd Anna Barabra Switzer. They emigrated to New York in 1760, supposedly aboard the Perry. In 1781, they were living, old and frail, in the vicinity of Albany, N. Y., and probably died in that locality soon after.

The two UE Loyalists, Lieut. John Dulmage (30 December 1744-cl814) and Sgt. David Dulmage (1746-) were children of Jacob and Margaret Embury.

April 6, 1965

The indications are that John Dulmage, UE, preceded his father and stepmother to America by about four years; even though only 12, he appears to have attached himself to Edward Carscallen and to have come over to New York with him c1756.

The 1760 migration was promoted by Philip Embury (1729-1775) who hoped to establish a new linen industry in New York City. The New York state archives, Albany, contain several documents pertaining to this ill-starred venture. Briefly, the emigrants wanted large land grants (1000 acres each) but after battling red tape, the land they were granted proved to be too rough and mountainous for any form of agriculture. Jacob Dulmage Sr. and Jacob Dulmage Jr. (whom I identify as the eldest son of Jacob and Margaret, born c1740) were among 25 signers of the first land petition, but are not found further. Jacob Jr. may have emigrated to the West Indies at the time of the Revolution.

In oral tradition, the founder of the family in New York was "Jason" (pronounced YAW-son) but we have found no documentation for the legend that he owned the site of Jersey City. Personally, I am inclined to dismiss this as half imagination and half garbling.

The future Loyalist, John Dulmage, by 1773 had acquired a leasehold on a 200-acre tract in the Camden Valley (now Washington County, New York), adjacent to the Vermont border. By 1776 he had cleared 30 acres and owned a few cows and pigs when agitation for American independence made it seem expedient for him to take refuge in Montreal.

The neighbors in Camden Valley included his uncles Philip and David Embury, his brother-in-law Paul Heck, his patron Edward Carscallen, Peter Sperling, Valentine Detlot, Abraham Binninger, Nathan Hawley, Elias Hoffman, and Peter Miller. I believe all of these had come from County Limerick to New York, and that most were German-Irish (Palatines).

From this point on, I assume you are on familiar ground with the Public Archives of Canada and the fifty volumes of historical documents transcribed from archives in London, Ottawa, Montpelier, Washington, etc. by Oscar E. Bredenberg (Block House Point, North Hero, Vermont). I believe I have everything from these sources which mentions either John or Philip Dulmage (c1761-1847), eldest son of John and who served briefly as private in the Loyalist forces, both of these being my ancestors.

It is possible that you have information on the distaff lines (Embury, Heck, Galloway) that I do not. Mrs. Lapp is a valued correspondent and has been most helpful.

Now what may I do for you?

Sincerely,

Richard P. Eckels
